EXT. CRICKET OVAL - ESTABLISHING

Two cricket teams are setting up before a game. Stumps are being put in and cones are being put out to mark the boundary. Cricket captain from the red team walks in frame and drops his kit.

RED CAPTAIN
(Looking around energetically)
I'm feeling a good performance today fellas! We have to get the win to stay in the hunt for finals!

A vibrating sound makes Red Captain grab his phone from his pocket and look at the screen. A message has popped up that reads: 'Hey Skip, Lucy has just gone into labour. Won't be able to play. Apologies for the late notice.'

A black text box appears on screen. It is filled with informational text on how the Red Captain can solve this unexpected issue with the Australian Sports Manager application.

The text on screen reads:

- Due to all players and officials recording their contact details and availabilities for the season on the ASM app database, the Red Captain can easily rectify the hassle of an unexpected late withdrawal from his team on game day.

Black text box fades and we see the Red Captain open up the ASM app to the user interface. Red Captain clicks on the NOT SELECTED tab. A list of players across all the teams at the club appear in alphabetical order.

The Red Captain clicks the SORT tab and chooses LIVE LOCATION. This sorts all the players not selected for that week by closest proximity to the ground. Red Captain clicks the first option as that player only lives 3 kilometres from the ground. The players home address and phone number appear.

Red Captain texts that player:

'Hey bud, it's Sam from 5ths here. You able to play today? We just got word Damo can't play. We're down at Primrose.'

INT. LOUNGE ROOM

A man in his lounge room is watching TV. His phone buzzes on the arm of the couch next to him. He's received the text that Red Captain just sent.

Man on the couch opens up his phone and replies:

'Yep, too easy! See you in a bit'

He puts on his cricket uniform and grabs his kit and walks out of the house.

EXT. CRICKET OVAL

Red Captain's phone buzzes and he receives the message from Sam.

RED CAPTAIN

Head's up lads, Damo can't play today. We've got Sam from 3rds coming down to help us out. He's a gun player!

Red Captain's phone buzzes again. This time he sees a message that says:

'Hey mate, I've just been involved in a car accident. Unfortunately I won't be able to come and umpire today. Hopefully you'll be able to find someone else. David'

Red Captain opens up the ASM application again. He clicks the OFFICIALS tab on the user interface. He sorts by LIVE LOCATION and shows all available officials closest to the ground.

Red Captain clicks the top option and sends a message to that official:

'Hey Andrew, Dave's been involved in an accident and I was wondering if you'd be able to fill in for him? We're down at Primrose.'

Red Captain receives a message a few minutes later:

'No worries mate, I'll be there as soon as I can!'
